What Are XL Surgical Trousers Used For?

XL surgical trousers complete the scrub set for theatre teams, emergency staff, midwives and ward nurses who change out of their own clothes at the start of a shift. Worn with a matching tunic, they form the clean base layer over which gowns, aprons, overshoes and other protective items are added.

A drawstring waist lets one XL size adjust to a range of waist measurements, which simplifies stock in a shared linen pool. Tie the drawstring firmly and tuck the ends inside so they cannot catch on equipment. After each use the trousers go through chlorine disinfection, washing and steam-sterilizer autoclaving, a cycle the woven fabric is specified to withstand.
