Description :

Polyethylene Widemouthed Bottles (Product Code: SLE/P/06) are translucent high-density polyethylene bottles with natural polypropylene screw closures, used to store solids, powders and samples in school, college and field laboratories. The wide mouth lets a spatula in and makes the bottles easy to clean, and they come in 125, 250, 500 and 1000 mL capacities. They are supplied by Jain Scientific Equipments Pvt Ltd (ScienceLab), Ambala, India, a chemistry consumables supplier in India for teaching and testing labs.

What Are Polyethylene Widemouthed Bottles Used For?

Wide-mouth bottles are the standard store for anything that has to be scooped rather than poured: salts and crystals for practical classes, powdered reagents, soil and sediment samples from field work, seeds, and small specimens. The opening is wide enough for a spatula or spoon, so material can be taken out without tipping the bottle, and the translucent HDPE lets you judge how much is left without opening it.

The same wide mouth makes the bottles quick to wash and dry when they are reused for a new substance. Tighten the polypropylene screw closure after every use to keep out moisture, label the bottle with contents and date, and keep liquids that need a controlled pour in narrow-mouthed bottles instead.

What to Specify When Ordering
