Description :

Respiratory Apparatus (Product Code: SCL271/0156) is a laminated wall chart used to teachthe organs of human breathing in school and college biology classrooms. Biology teachers andlab instructors hang this 70 cm x 100 cm chart where the whole class can follow a lesson on howair reaches the lungs. It is made by Jain Scientific Equipments Pvt Ltd (ScienceLab), an OEM manufacturer, at its own factory in Ambala, India, as part of its range of biology teaching aids.

What Is the Respiratory Apparatus Chart Used For?

Teachers use the chart as the anchor for a respiration unit, pointing out the route air takes through the nasal cavity, pharynx, larynx and trachea into the bronchi and lungs, and then explaining how oxygen and carbon dioxide are exchanged. Because it stays on the wall for the whole unit, students can check their worksheet labels against it and revise before practical tests.

It works well as one sheet in a biology chart set for schools: pair it with a bell-jar lung model or a lung capacity activity so learners connect the anatomy on the wall with breathing movements they can see and measure. Mount it at eye level near the demonstration bench so the teacher can point to it during experiments.

OEM Manufacturer

ScienceLab is the trading name of Jain Scientific Equipments Private Limited, the original equipment manufacturer (OEM) of the Respiratory Apparatus chart. The chart is made at the company's own licensed factory at Saha, Ambala, Haryana, India, and goes factory-direct to schools, colleges, training institutes, dealers and importers instead of passing through a trader. Repeat orders for additional classrooms are handled by the manufacturer itself, so just ask us when you need more copies. Learn more on the ScienceLab company profile.
