Description :

Human Excretory System (Product Code: SCL494/0218) is a laminated wall chart used to teach how the kidneys remove nitrogenous waste and balance the body's water content, in school and laboratory biology lessons. The 75 x 100 cm polyart sheet gives the class a shared reference for the kidneys, ureters, urinary bladder and urethra, and for explaining how urine forms. It is madeby Jain Scientific Equipments Pvt Ltd (ScienceLab), an OEM manufacturer and biology lab equipment supplier in India, at its own factory in Ambala.

What Is the Human Excretory System Chart Used For?

Excretion is often taught as a sequence: blood reaches the kidney, is filtered, useful substances are taken back and what remains drains away as urine. With that sequence on a large chart, the teacher can walk the class through it step by step and return to the same picture for dialysis, kidney stones or how drinking more water changes urine volume. Students preparing for practical exams use it to check their own labelled drawings.

In a practical session, the chart provides the context for simple urine tests, such as detecting urea with urease and phenol red. When planning a biology lab setup in a school, many teachers group it with a kidney model so the outline on the wall and the sectioned organ on the bench reinforce each other. Roll the chart loosely rather than folding it when it comes down between terms.

OEM Manufacturer

ScienceLab, the trading name of Jain Scientific Equipments Private Limited, is the OEM manufacturer of the Human Excretory System chart and makes it at its own licensed factory at Saha, Ambala, Haryana, India. Schools, colleges and distributors therefore buy direct from the manufacturer, and requests for extra or replacement copies are handled by the same company — simply ask us. More is on the company profile.
